Objectives

Social Studies - NC Economy

Students will be able to explain how people, events and developments brought about changes to communities in various regions of NC.

Reading - Expository Text

Students will be able to examine nonfiction texts and determine key pieces of information when referring back to text to answer literal and inferential comprehension questions.

Math – Geometry

Students will use understanding of angle measure and lines to identify types of angles and sides in shapes and lines of symmetry.

Need to Know!

Students have been working hard on wrapping up their science projects and they turned out so great! We are moving on in social studies and we will be studying economics (no more projects until after Christmas ;).

We will be having our class Christmas part 12/18. I will be putting out a SignUpGenius in the coming week. As we do not have a room parent at the time, I am the point of contact. We will be having some kind of craft and some games.

I have noticed this year that many students are struggling with organization. Next week I will be giving every student a single 1” binder with pocket dividers. We will spend some time in the morning going over the new rules and expectations for organization and how their folders should be used and how this will help them be more successful with organization and preparedness.

We are running low on glue sticks. If you can donate and/or purchase some for the class, it would be greatly appreciated.

Writing –Opinion

Students will be able to utilize key details to summarize main ideas and support a topic based paper.

Language – Figurative Language

Students will be able to use metaphor, simile, onomatopoeia, alliteration, idiom and hyperbole and identify them and their meaning within reading passages and selected examples.

Please continue using Tenmarks. Students should work on completing 1 assignment each night until they have finished all. Remember to watch the videos and use the hints if struggling.
